Editorial Message

The Global Journal of Novel Pharma and Paramedical Research is the official journal of ADSRS Education and Research. It is owned, published by and copyrighted to this organisation. The Journal has complete editorial freedom in terms of content.

The editorial aim of our journal is on publishing high-quality original works to promote excellence in Pharmaceutical and Medical Sciences for better health outcomes for the development of the society.

The Journal is accepting research and review articles on innovations and new ideas in medication management and Pharmaceutical Sciences research that improves practice. The Journal is a platform for scientists working in the field of Pharmaceutical and Medical Sciences with a focus on improving the safe and effective use of medicines.

The Journal supports this by providing a forum for the exchange of knowledge, ideas, commentary and professional opinion by publishing these categories of articles: systematic and narrative reviews original research, practice and case reports, geriatric therapeutics, editorials, standards of practice, letters to the editor, and more. All articles are peer-reviewed.

The Journal is managed by an Editor-in-Chief under direction from the Journal's Editorial Advisory Board.

The Journal is freely available to the community through online.

On behalf of editorial members, I welcome feedback from every stakeholder like our readers and contributors to enhance the overall quality of the journal.

With best wishes.

Prof. Subhasish Mondal
Editor-in-Chief
